IT'S A MIRACLE

Jesus doll walks on water and heals the sick – just like the real Messiah!

By HARRY DUTTER
Weekly World News

BOCA RATON, Fla. — The amazing Jesus action figure that Weekly World News first reported on in our October 1, 2002, edition has been performing even greater miracles, including walking on water to help heal a sick old lady!

"It was truly a miracle," says Enid Kolinder, 75, formerly of Milwaukee, Wis. "I was walking through the park when my arthritis started hurting so bad, I had to sit down.

"A little boy was playing with the Jesus doll across the pond. The doll actually walked across the pond, touched me, and took my pain away."

Enrico Gonzaga

The boy who owns the action figure, Enrico Gonzaga, 12, says his toy had never done anything like that before.

"I asked my mom to get me the Jesus doll, because I like to bring it with me to church every Sunday. But I never knew it had powers like that.

"After it healed that lady it even walked back across the lake to me."

In October, reports first began to surface of the Jesus action figure healing the sick. But its powers have seemingly increased since then.

Enid Kolinder

Doll owners throughout the U.S. report the amazing action figure has even cured viral fevers.

David Wald, a spokesman for the Archie McPhee company which sells the Jesus action figures, says, "We've been overwhelmed by these reports, but are not in a position to confirm or deny anything at this time."

Wald says the Jesus doll is incredibly popular, second only to the company's Sigmund Freud doll.

One religious expert has a theory as to why these miracles are occurring.

"Perhaps the real Jesus is channeling his power through the doll."

Vatican officials declined to comment on the story, and have thus far not responded to requests for interviews.

MINI-MESSIAH: This Jesus action figure is an incredibly popular toy with kids — and it has powers and abilities similar to the Biblical Son of God.

Schools like it when parents accompany children on school trips — but dads should leave their dresses and high heels at home.

Parents at the Castle Elementary School in St. Louis were shocked when they found out the chaperone on the school's outing was a cross-dresser who was all dolled up for the occasion.

It seems the children didn't mind the pretend-up parent. In fact, a civil rights group defended the feminine father by saying, "Not all men grow up to be cowboys and construction workers."

Yeah, but unfortunately some guys in drag look like Mrs. Doubtfire and not like Buffalo Bill.

Creating Cadavers

Did you ever have a corpse floating through your kitchen? Or a dead body in your dining room?

One Brazilian family was chased out of their home by some roaming remains which floated in from a nearby cemetery during heavy rains in Rio de Janeiro.

Limbs, bones and pieces of clothing came crashing through their home.

I've enjoyed an occasional guest now in my house, but nothing like this!

Haunted at home

A Cambodian mother went a little too far in grounding her daughter. She nailed her feet to the floor!

Mao Savoeun, 36, pounded a two-inch nail "through her 13-year-old's toes and right into the floorboards."

The local district chief is taking the incident very seriously, saying, "This is a crime that we are going to send her to the prosecutor."

Sounds like they want to nail that mailbome upon the worst way she nailed her daughter!

Alien skull proves that a UFO did crash at Roswell!

Dear Editor,

I knew it! I always knew that aliens landed at Roswell back in '47. I was living in Arizona back then, and I remember all the excitement when the local paper reported the crash. The next day, the government said it was just a weather balloon, but this skull proves that the U.S. government was lying.

After more than 50 years, the truth is finally coming out, thanks to Weekly World News.

Gerald H.
Phoenix, Ariz.

That alien skull might just be the tip of the iceberg. Dr. Phil Partitua and his team are still digging — and there's no telling what else they might find! Keep reading Weekly World News for further developments.

Dear Editor:

I read your article in Weekly World News titled "Gold Found on Mars." I was very impressed by your story.

Can you give me more information on the location of the gold on Mars? Do you know of maps of Mars that show the location of Comber Chasm?

I will deeply appreciate all the help you can give me.

Johnny E.
Euless, Texas

Johnny, we might be able to mail you some maps if we have enough time. What exactly are you planning on doing?

And now here's a reader love letter for Melanie, the lovely gal with the triple bosom ...

Dear Three-Breasted Beauty,

Some time ago, I read the article about you but I never thought that you would be lonely. There was an article in Weekly World News about so-called "Freaks." That upsets me when narrow-minded people decide who is normal and who is not. Who is to say what is normal?

I have never seen a three-breasted female other than in the movie Total Recall. Her name was Mary. If she was natural, she had three perfect breasts, and if she was made up to appear that way, then the makeup people did a great job, because she looked real.

According to Weekly World News, the letters in you keep coming in, probably by the truckload. I'm sure you'll have thousands of applicants to choose from. I do not delude myself into thinking I am the world's best girl to females. The only thing I have to offer is love and understanding mixed with quiet conversation.

I guess females want more than that.

Sincerely, A.J.R.
Coulsdyell, N.H.

Don't sell yourself short, A.J.! Melanie is a sweet, sensitive woman who appreciates good company. Maybe you'll get lucky and she'll drop you a line.

WAITRESS BUSTED FOR MAKING SHAKES WITH HER BREAST MILK!

By JACK TRAM Weekly World News

ST. PETERSBURG, Russia — Police arrested a 22-year-old Russian waitress after they caught her making milk shakes with her own breast milk!

Shapely Anna Wasilevich, a single mother of two-month-old triplets, was a waitress at a diner specializing in American cuisine. The most popular items on the menu were hamburgers, french fries, and milk shakes.

The shakes were so popular the diner would sometimes run out of milk. But compassionate Anna could never let a customer go away thirsty. "One little boy said he really wanted a milk shake, and even though we had no more milk, I couldn't turn him down."

The resourceful girl found a clever solution, Anna recalls. "I just had triplets, so I was lactating pretty heavily. This gave me an idea."

With her children sleeping at last, the enterprising young mom took her breast pump — "a necessity when you have three mouths to feed" — and turned her 36-D breasts into a milk fountains. "I'm used to feeding three hungry babies, so I was able to make a milk shake for the guy. He couldn't tell the difference."

After that, Anna was able to crank out at least one of her "special shakes" a day while still providing nourishment for all three of her children.

WAITRESS Anna Wasilevich

"I took care of my kids first," she says, "and anything left over went to the customers. I tried to save my breast milk for my most special customers. They really loved it."

The breast milk shakes were a big hit. "These milk shakes made me so relaxed," raves Boris Tarasov, a truck driver. "I let the gang go sleep instead of going back to work."

But Anna's milk train came to an end a few weeks ago when shocked health inspectors uncovered the deception and summoned the police. "I found Miss Wasilevich lap-loss and filling a blender with her own milk," health inspector Yuri Ilko says.

Anna's milk addiction to her clients, and was fined for violating health codes. In addition, she received a lifetime ban from working in food services.

"What is so wrong with human breast milk?" asks the defiant former waitress. "It is the first food we all had in life, and it makes the people happy. Why is that worse than drinking the milk of a cow?"

Anna's special shakes made with breast milk were a hit with customers.

WACKY ADOLF

BERLIN, Germany — Nazi madman Adolf Hitler kept a secret journal in which he recorded dozens of incredible predictions — including the rise of J.Lo, the emergence of fast food restaurants, man landing on the moon and even internet porn, reports a member of a commission assembled to study the remarkable tome!

"It's well known that Hitler had a lifelong fascination with mysticism and believed he was clairvoyant himself," says John Zolton, an internationally renowned expert on the occult.

"Hitler notes in the diary that strange visions often came to him while he meditated. He thought these visions were predictions for the future and wrote them down in minute detail."

The shocking diary was found in a hidden wall safe during the remodeling of a long abandoned government building in Charlottenburg. Commission members speculate that Hitler ordered the diary hidden there during the final days of World War II because he felt it wasn't safe in his underground bunker beneath the Chancellery in Berlin.

CLONING is hard to believe in our day and age -- but Hitler foresaw it years ago.

"Hitler obviously believed his predictions foretold important future events and he wanted to make sure they were protected until the war was over and Germany emerged victorious.

But as we know the Allies had other ideas," says military historian Hans-Eric Smootz, who confirmed that the handwriting in the diary was Hitler's after comparing ADOLF HITLER claimed to be a clairvoyant — and his recently uncovered diary proves he just might have been!

PREDICTIONS OF HITLER FOUND

By STANLEY DONALDSON
Weekly World News

. . . & some of them actually came true!

ADOLF HITLER revealed in his diary that man would one day "shoot to the moon in large air vessels" — though he thought it would be the Germans.

23 years before she was even born, Hitler predicted that big-bootied diva Jennifer Lopez would take America by storm and capture our hearts with her ample talents.

smuggled printscopies of them with known samples of Hitler's handwriting.

Many of Hitler's predictions are uncannily accurate. For example, he foresaw the possibility of cloning. He wrote, "Science will find a way to make an exact doppelganger of a man. These duplicates will be identical to the original in every way."

Hitler also predicted that man would walk on the moon before 1970, though he mistakenly believed that the first astronauts would be German.

He even foresaw the rise of superstar Jennifer Lopez. His journal speaks of a "Latin woman with a large derriere who becomes famous for her singing, dancing and frequent weddings."

Other startling predictions include:

- A board that jumpers and modelers (boys and girls) would attach roller skate wheels to and ride down the street. This invention was actually created — we call it the skateboard!
- The birth of the Internet and porn Web sites. He made reference to "an electronic method of distributing racy adult materials."
- A box inside your own home that would show moving pictures in color. (Hitler foresaw color TVs!)
- Man-made organs, such as artificial hearts and kidneys.
- A single European currency. (Hitler erroneously predicted it would be the Deutschmark.)
- The rise of fast food restaurants. Hitler had no idea "French" fries would become such a hit!

While many of Hitler's predictions were right on the money, others were wildly inaccurate. Among the most laughable:

- Flying automobiles before the year 2000.
- Pills that would allow people to live 500 years.
- Training dogs, cats and other pets to talk.
- Vacation resorts on the Moon and Mars.
- Machines that could control the weather anywhere on Earth.

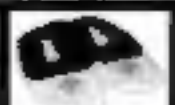
"Several of Hitler's predictions were silly, but he was accurate a frightening percentage of the time," notes Zolton.

"Based on this diary, we can assume that he probably did possess a certain degree of psychic ability. But what's most ironic is that he apparently failed to envision that his evil Third Reich would ultimately fail.

"If he did have that particular vision, he wisely did not write it down."

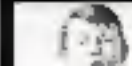
NO ONE ever thought Europe would have a common currency. Hitler did!

3 THINGS YOU DIDN'T KNOW ABOUT HITLER



Hitler detested wearing uniforms and spent most evenings in pajamas and fuzzy slippers.

As a boy, young Adolf dreamed of being an artist. He was suspended from his school for making clay statues labeled as "obscene."



As a poor man, at the age of 24 Adolf moved to the streets of Germany offering sex to strangers for

TODDLER'S FINGER PAINTING REVEALS LOCATION OF ATLANTIS!

By SCOTT PETERSON
Weekly World News

LEGENDS describe Atlantis as many 300-mile-square Rome-like cities, mighty navy and powerful army. Some say it's the mythical paradise, a Utopia on earth. Others say it's nothing more than ruins, but may be hiding untold riches below the waves.

NAPLES, ITALY — Don't throw away your children's crayon scribblings and clay sculptures — because they could lead you to the archaeological discovery of the century!

A renowned oceanographer credits his 2-year-old son's finger painting with providing him the final detail necessary to pinpoint the exact location of the legendary lost city of Atlantis.

"I've spent most of my adult life searching for the remains of that amazing, sub-aquatic metropolis," says Dr. Kevin Mitchell, professional oceanographer and part time archaeologist. "I never dreamed the answer would come from my 2-year-old son."

Mitchell found the painting under the crib of his son, Owen, and was about to put it up on the refrigerator when he noticed it was an amazing reproduction of the Atlantic Ocean, the location of which Mitchell refuses to divulge.

"I didn't recognize it at first because of a huge, green blob in the center, signifying a large land mass that doesn't exist," Dr. Mitchell says. "Suddenly I realized that just because it's not there now, doesn't mean it wasn't there hundreds of years ago."

Dr. Mitchell, while "I look across the ocean floor."

But some dispute Dr. Mitchell's claim that he has found Atlantis. "It's ludicrous to base one's findings on the doodles of a toddler," says Milo Giovanni of the World Oceanographic Institute. "I've seen no solid evidence that he's found Atlantis. It could just be seaweed or an old shipwreck."

"I don't care what the so-called experts say," fumes Dr. Mitchell. "Somehow, my son has stumbled upon decades searching for."

Dr. Mitchell is in the process of acquiring financing for a major exploratory mission to Atlantis.

"I need ships and unmanned submersibles that can withstand the pressures of the deep," he says. "But most investors say they cannot commit to such a large undertaking based on an child's smeary handprints."

Dr. Mitchell vows he will not rest until he proves his son's map is correct. "I'm going to lead an expedition to Atlantis someday. I've already got the map. All I need now is the funding to make it happen."

"I never dreamed the answer would come from my 2-year-old son!"

OCEANOGRAPHER Dr. Kevin Mitchell, doubted dad or destined for greatness?

Grandpa killed by TOILET!

BUCKINGHAMSHIRE, England — A 63-year-old grandfather stepped into a bathroom and was dead in minutes, killed by fumes from the toilet!

Testimony at a coroner's hearing reveals Alan Wilson was overcome after a janitor cleaned the toilet with a product that's 91 percent sulphuric acid — a chemical that can give off deadly fumes if mixed with water.

Family members say their grandfather used the toilet and then rushed out of the bathroom, clutching his chest and keeling over within seconds. With his lungs so badly blocked he could hardly breathe, Wilson was dead by the time he got to the hospital.

"He was having difficulty breathing and his lips were going blue," says distraught daughter Jinine Wilson. "He managed to get downstairs. Outside, he collapsed in the car in a praying position. I panicked and called an ambulance immediately."

The building's janitor says he knew the cleaning product shouldn't be mixed with water. "But there was hardly any water in the toilet and I only poured the cleaner around the rim."

LONDON — After decades of research, scientists have perfected a coffee bag just like the ones used to make tea!

Simply pour hot water over the bag and in under a minute you have a delicious cup of Joe.

THE BLAST will turn the once pristine Rocky Mountains into asteroids in a matter of seconds, killing millions, or possibly billions of people worldwide.

DENVER — The gigantic asteroid that slammed into Earth and destroyed the dinosaurs 65 million years ago has formed a subterranean "magma bubble" that's threatening to blow the Rocky Mountains up and out into space, wreaking untold destruction, both in space and here on Earth, warn scientists.

By NEIL LIPPE

And while the experts disagree on the ultimate impact the so-called "Big Blow" will have, some say it will:

GEOLOGIST Dr. James Morehead

- Vaporize a huge portion of America's heartland, leaving a charred and smoking, uninhabitable, hot dog-shaped crater from Colorado to Canada where great cities, natural wonders and prime vacation spots used to dot the landscape.
- Kill millions of innocent and unsuspecting people in the immediate vicinity of the blast.
- Wipe out many more millions and perhaps even billions worldwide as tons of dirt, rock and debris

"If you ever wanted to know what the dinosaurs felt like, this is your chance," declares Dr. James Morehead, the esteemed Australian geologist who discovered "seismic anomalies" that led to the discovery of the magma bubble earlier this year.

"The asteroid that crashed into Earth and wiped the dinosaurs out isn't through with us yet. This is, in fact, the continuation of an event that's taken millions of years to unfold. And like it or not, we are going to experience it firsthand."

In a letter scheduled to be published in no fewer than six geology journals early next year, Dr. Morehead explains how "unusual seismic activity indicative of pressurized volcanic activity" led to the discovery of an

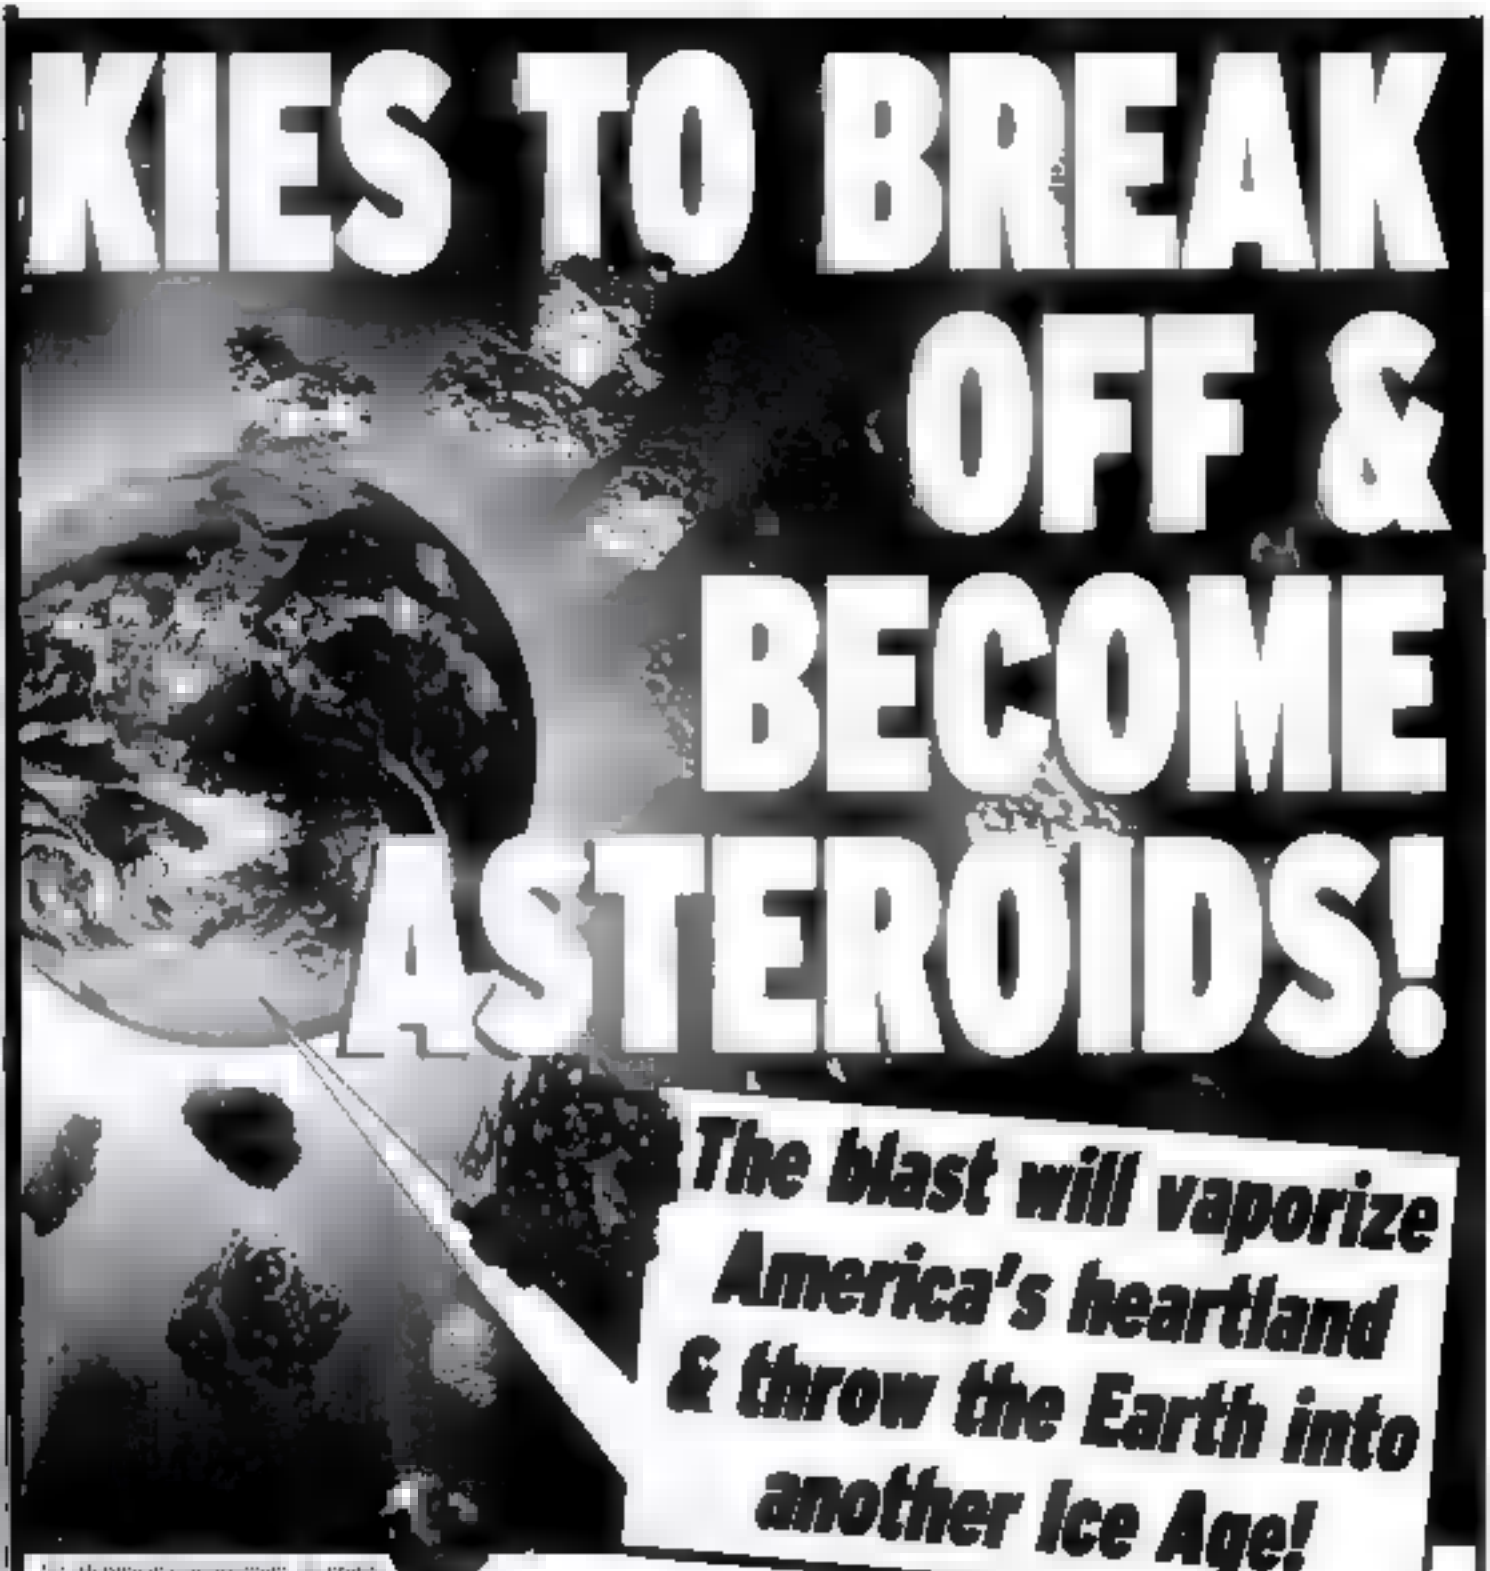
KIES TO BREAK OFF & BECOME ASTEROIDS!



The blast will vaporize America's heartland & throw the Earth into another Ice Age!

"Just stop and think about what this means," added the source. "A single volcano with an opening the size of a few city blocks can wipe out an entire town and spew enough smoke and ash to cause weather changes worldwide ... a meteor greater in mass than all of the world's greatest mountain ranges on the planet!

"When this blast blows, the percussion in neighboring states like Kansas and Nevada is going to blow people's eardrums out!

"All civilization will cease existing as we know it. Millions of people will die instantly, and billions more will perish in the months and years to come. Those who survive will be forced to live like cavemen!"

The source explained that the meteor is on a direct collision course with Earth.

"There are already local and federal evacuation procedures in place that are designed to save those who are left. But there's no way to evacuate the entire planet!"

Dr. Morehead said that the meteor is expected to hit Earth in the year 2012. He added that the government has been aware of the meteor's existence for more than a year, but has kept the information secret.

"The government doesn't want to cause panic," he said. "They're afraid that if people know the end is coming, they'll start looting and raping and killing. They're afraid that society will break down and there will be anarchy in the streets. They're afraid that people will stop working and stop paying taxes. They're afraid that the economy will collapse and the government will lose all control."

Dr. Morehead said that the government has been working on a plan to save the world's population, but that the plan is still in the early stages of development.

"The plan is to build a huge underground city that will be able to support millions of people for many years," he said. "The city will be powered by nuclear reactors and will have its own food supply. The people who live there will be chosen by lottery and will be required to undergo extensive training before they are allowed to enter the city."

Dr. Morehead said that the government has been working on the plan for more than a decade and that it is expected to be completed by the year 2010.

"The plan is very ambitious and very expensive," he said. "But it's the only way we can save the human race."

AMAZING ANIMAL TALES!

BAD BEASTS

Naughty creatures are in the news this week! Sources tell us of a prankster parrot, and a bunch of swans who need to be locked into a 12-step program as soon as possible. And then there's the nasty owl who tried to make a meal of a tiny blind Chihuahua — and won't even make that mistake again.

BLESS me Father — for I have sinned

Prankster parrot poses as priest

CORK, Ireland — Members of a small Catholic parish are raising hell about having confessions heard by an impostor — the pastor's pet parrot!

Horrified members of St. Malachy's Catholic Church say three elderly parishioners unknowingly confessed to Daisy, a 15-year-old African grey parrot owned by Father Joseph McGuirk.

McGuirk says he often hears confessions with Daisy perched next to him. "I just wish I'd signed on to see the lawyers when I thought up this racket," he explains. "After I guess a couple of my older parishioners came into the booth and started their confessions. They thought and their hearing aren't too good you know.

"Daisy's been with me in the booth for so many years, I guess he's picked up a few of the blessings and responses that I give — and they thought it was me hmmmmm them.

"I feel just terrible," he sighs. "I've already apologized to all the Masses, and in the future I'll be leaving Daisy in the rectory."

But some of the parishioners who confessed to the bird aren't angry. Instead, they're delighted that the cheeky parrot has given them the chance to confess their sins to a Catholic. Now they're all excited and gossiping about who's going to confess next.

"Everyone loves Father Joe, but there's talk around the town that he's a bit of a fuss-pot."

A church insider says McGuirk will probably be disappointed by the decision, but they don't plan to remove him from the parish.

And they're more reassured that the confessions are "confidential." "They were still special to God," says one Church official. "And it's not as if Father Joe is going to tell the bishop and he'll punish him."

Pip-squeak pup battles bird

CHARLOTTE, NC — A tiny Chihuahua showed a giant heart when he battled a ferocious owl that was attacking him.

The 2-year-old dog named Radar because of his oversize ears, fended off the owl in a fierce seven-minute fight that left the bird's claws and beak bloody.

The fight was all the more impressive because Radar is blind!

"It was absolutely horrifying," Radar's owner says of the attack. "But when the owl tried to fly away, Radar grabbed on and wouldn't let go."

MY DATE FROM HELL — with Osama Bin Laden!

NO LOVE connection here. Fatima al-Masreqh says she and Osama didn't hit it off

PARIS — A woman who went on a blind date with Osama Bin Laden 24 years ago during his college days says the world's most evil man was a creep even then — and she describes the encounter as the date from Hell!

"Osama was dour and cheap. He even made me pay for our own meal," says Fatima al Masreqh, who revealed her brush with infamy in an interview with the French magazine Figaro.

Fatima, a Syrian graduate student who was studying medicine at Saudi Arabia's King Abdul Aziz University in 1981 when a mutual friend set up the date, said Osama was a religious fanatic.

She told the magazine: "He was very aggressive, which made me think he was a modern man. I was wrong. I was dealing with a fundamentalist."

She also mentioned that her fellow students at the university were afraid of Osama.

"When Osama arrived in Jeddah, he set up his own group and gave orders to everyone. He was very violent. Even other students who were part of the Muslim Brotherhood were afraid of him."

By MICHAEL FORSYTH

He insisted that I walk a few steps behind him, and he wouldn't sit in the same car as me. Anything else would be unacceptable.

"When he left, he ordered me to stay. I was wearing a miniskirt and he shouted at me to cover my legs and said, 'Proper Arab women don't show their legs that way.'

I thought that because he studied engineering, every aspect of life had to be logical. He insisted on taking me to the little hole in the wall that served as a restaurant. He didn't even ask me what I wanted to eat.

Then, during dinner, Osama got very distracted.

Osama nearly interrupted the conversation whenever I tried to talk about myself or my opinions. He told me that Egypt's government was launching attacks against Islamic fundamentalists.

He went on and on about how the Western world was being corrupted by Western influences.

He raved against Western music, movies and women. It was like getting a lecture from a monk.

The only way I could get him to shut up was to tell him that I was a Christian. That made him furious.

He said, 'You are a Christian? You are a pig!' He was so angry that he left the restaurant and refused to pay the bill.

That was the last time I saw him. He called me a few times after that, but I refused to talk to him.

I guess he is a big deal now. You can't forget a man like that. He was so full of hate and spite. I will have nightmares about him tonight.

I wouldn't be surprised if he ends up killing thousands of people," Fatima added with a shudder.

STINGY millionaire Osama wouldn't pay for dinner with his date because he was saving his money for something else

TOY BOAT CROSSES THE ATLANTIC!

ISLE OF WIGHT, England — A child's toy boat made an amazing transatlantic journey, traveling 3,000 miles from Canada to this island off the coast of England.

The plastic vessel washed ashore and was found by a man walking his dog on the beach. It had a brass plate with the inscription "If found — made in Quebec" and a Web site address and telephone number.

The boat had hit the water four months earlier. It was one of 5,000 vessels launched by Ban lady docs!

A woman's place is in the kitchen, says Ed

I'm madder than a proctologist with a broken index finger at all these lady doctors they've got jiggling around the hospitals nowadays!

When the ambulance boys wheeled me into the ER with my heart attack a few months back, I was expecting to be treated by someone who looked like good old Dr. Marcus Welby from TV — a man with a trustworthy face and some dignified gray in his hair so you can tell he knows his way around a stethoscope.

Instead, some skinny blonde girl who looked like Gwyneth Paltrow and wasn't a day over 20 was glued up and told me, "Mr. Anger, I'm your cardiologist."

I almost dropped dead right there and there from the shock, by gum!

When I think the word "doctor," I picture the old time family physician who GET 'EM out of the operating room and back in the kitchen where they belong, says Ed.

[illegible] want to make house calls when I was a kid but some girl doing enough to be my grown daughter, decked out in a little number and designer shoes.

As if that wasn't bad enough, after my bypass operation, yet another lady doc — a surgeon with thick glasses rather unbecoming for a female — came to check on the [illegible]

When she told me she had some good news and show her the Anger family jewels at first I thought she was joking.

I said, "Lookee, you make damn sure you know your little lady."

Well, she didn't think that was too funny. She snapped back that if I didn't like what she said in the next seconds she was going to [illegible]

I was too shocked and [illegible] surgeons to anger so I sucked in my gut and gave [illegible] the little news. She wanted. But you can bet I was boiling mad.

If hard-up [illegible] spend [illegible] want to see their naked [illegible] them go to a bachelorette party where there's a male stripper the way normal old maids do.

But what really gets me all [illegible] mad is that a lot of these lady doctors are married. Heck, some even have kids — but instead of staying at home and taking care of them, they're off sewing to another accident victim.

One Weekly World News reporter is married to one of these Amazons. They've got a 3-year-old and he says the poor SOB spends more time now than he had twins and she went right on working at the hospital up until the minute the little suckers popped out.

It's high time we, Congress should pass a law banning lady doctors.

You heard me right, buckaroo.

Now that wouldn't mean a little girl who has an interest in medicine can't have a career. She'd still be able to go get a high paying job as a nurse.

And without all the medical school debt taken up by gals they'd be more gainfully employed men who don't have [illegible] be a brain surgeon somedays but surely be started back selling life insurance or some such as they were in a century or [illegible]

Well, I tell you the boy ought not be the shepherd's pie in the drawer, but he's got a good heart and a lot of genuine interest.

Why you should see him dissecting the buildings he finds on the side of the road.

I say give boys like J.D. a chance to live their dreams — and let girls like his sister work beside them as nurses and helpmates, passing the scalpels.

U.S. GOVT CREATED THE AIDS VIRUS

By Kim McLaren
Weekly World News Writer

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS EXCLUSIVE!

AIDS is the United States' secret plan to cull world populations by unleashing a stealth biological microorganism that would "waste" humanity, claims attorney Boyd E. Graves.

'Between 1964 & 1978, the secret federal virus program spent $550 million of taxpayer money to invent AIDS,' says California attorney!

SAN DIEGO — The U.S. government created the deadly AIDS virus as a way of wiping out blacks and other minorities around the world, says a researcher who's fought for 10 years to bring his eye-opening charge to light.

Boyd E. Graves, a lawyer and graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, says he has irrefutable evidence of the United States' secret plan to cull world populations by unleashing a stealth biological microorganism."

Graves claims the AIDS virus was developed in an ultrasecret government project called the Special Virus Program.

"We believe HIV is the product of intent. We believe AIDS is the product of design," he said in a telephone interview last month from New York City, before addressing the Black African Holocaust Conference.

According to a report from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control, African Americans account for 38 percent of all AIDS cases in the country, yet they represent only 12 percent of the population. And the disease has attacked millions of people in Africa, which has suffered from the pandemic more than anywhere else in the world.

AIDS virus

AIDS is one of the most important weapons in the government arsenal of biological warfare, declares Graves. He has filed a lawsuit in U.S. District Court in San Diego demanding an open review of the facts he's uncovering, including the two shocking elements:

● A Special Virus Flow Chart that details the government's "reconfigured research program to develop a cancer virus that depletes the immune system."

● A photograph of a mosquito virus that's virtually identical to the AIDS virus. Yet the photograph was shot in 1971 — 10 years before the known AIDS virus was discovered.

Graves also has documents from government and scientific leaders which reveal sinister intentions on the part of scientists and government leaders.

A 1943 memo from a top State Department official, for example, urges colleagues to "get on with the task of dealing with the burgeoning populations of the Third World."

For those who think the U.S. government would never do such a terrible thing to any of its people, Graves offers an eyebrow-raising memo from the Tuskegee Syphilis Experiments about the Tuskegee Project.

In that infamous program which began in 1932, government researchers secretly infected black men with syphilis so they could study the disease even after a cure had been found.

"Between 1964 and 1978, the secret federal virus program spent $550 million of taxpayer money to invent AIDS," Graves wrote on his Web site www.boydgraves.com.

"It is now necessary to spend whatever it takes to dismantle an invention that has led to the greatest crime against humanity in the history of the world," he declares.

PAINLESS WAYS TO SAVE!

Want to retire rich? It'll be a piece of cake if you make a few simple moneysaving changes now.

Here's what you'd save over the next 20 years if you eliminated or cut back on a few luxuries, according to the Web site of money management firm Primerica. Amounts are based on investing the savings at 6 percent, over 20 years:

- Skip one plate each week: $16,083.75
- Brew your own coffee instead of getting gourmet stuff: $17,616.01
- Cut back three lottery tickets each week: $5,359.00
- Cut your smoking by half a pack a day: $14,299.84
- Borrow books from the library instead of buying them: $4,116.24

That's a whopping $61,469.84 — and it's yours for the taking!

8 SIMPLE TIPS TO SHOPPING SMART!

TRY THESE TIPS for saving money on purchases.

1 Use coupons when you shop, and check back for stores that have double-coupon days.

2 Don't wait for a coupon on your favorite product to show up. Many companies will send you coupons if you just ask.

3 Buy generic, which is even better than coupon clipping. We saved $8 each a box buying the generic version of a popular cereal brand named. Buying four boxes of it each month and investing the savings at 6 percent would yield $1,388 over 40 years — and a great deal of money for our kids.

4 Always ask about senior citizen, student and other special discounts. Some stores don't advertise them.

5 Earn fast cash by selling the junk cluttering your attic on eBay.

6 Turn your hobby into a moneymaking venture. For example, sell your handmade arts and crafts on the Internet and at local bazaars.

7 Barter with friends for goods and services. If you're handy with tools, offer to do some home repairs for your neighbor who dazzles in exchange for awkward-seat or free dental care.

8 Always ask yourself: "Do I really need this?" Before you buy anything, wait a day or two and see if you still want it.

THE WORLD'S MOST INCREDIBLE CRIME REPORTS

By JANE MAKE, Crime Reporter

Kids help men rob school

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands — A group of 38 kids helped four men steal computers and toys from a school. But the brats claim they thought they were just going to a party!

Cops say the kids, ages 8 to 16, told police the men told them they were going to a "secret party" at the school. Once there, the men told them to load away the property.

Seven of the kids stayed, although others just played or watched.

"A lot of the children were seen that night by the neighbors," police spokesman Algemeen Dagblad says. "Most of them will have to attend a special course to prevent them from doing criminal acts again."

GUYS that rob schools have no class!

GANG BANGER BEATS UP HIS OWN GRANDPA

ROSARIO, Argentina — Getting mugged is never a pleasant experience — but it's even worse when the person mugging you turns out to be a member of your own family!

Cops say a 63-year-old shop owner was attacked by three masked men who jumped him after he refused to give them money from the day's business.

During the struggle, the feisty old-timer ripped ready ski of the masks -- and saw his 21-year-old grandson's face beneath it.

"I suppose he felt more pain in his soul than the pain caused to his body by the attack," Rosario Police Chief Jorge Nava, quoted in the newspaper Clarin.

The three heartless thugs were charged with theft and violence yesterday in the newspaper.

TOE-TALLY DISGUSTING!

Toe-licking freak nailed

WOONSOCKET, R.I. — A toe-licking terror has been brought to justice by cops who caught the footloving freak before he could unleash his disgusting tongue once again!

Cops say roundy-featured Dubie, 34, talked up to women in stores and restaurants then ran their "pretty feet." Then he'd bend down and start licking.

One middle-aged woman told cops she "felt something wet on her ankle, like a tongue," and looked down to see Dubie satisfying his strange habit.

Dubie got busted after three women picked him out of a photo lineup.

This court said cops on duty Dubie, who pleaded "no contest" to three charges of simple assault. He was given a one-year suspended sentence followed by one year of probation.

FILIBERTO OJEDA RIOS

You could get up to $500,000 if you have information that helps bring in this fugitive terrorist.

The feds say he's the leader of a Puerto Rico-based group called Ejercito Popular Boricua — Puerto Rican Army of the People. The band of outlaws has claimed responsibility for several armed robberies and terrorist bombings since 1978.

The FBI wants Ojeda Rios for grabbing $7.2 million from a Wells Fargo Depot in Hartford, Conn., in an armed robbery on Sept. 12, 1983. He's also wanted for bond default in September 1990.

On the run for years, Ojeda Rios was tried and convicted in absentia and in 1992 was sentenced to 55 years in prison. He was also fined $600,000.

Ojeda Rios has claimed to be 69 and 72 years old at various times. He is 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 150 to 170 pounds. He has a scar on his chest from heart surgery, wears a pacemaker and walks with a limp. He wears prescription eyeglasses, usually has a beard and may have dyed his hair black.

He's believed to be living in the mountains of central Puerto Rico with his wife, but many sometimes travel to the mainland United States.

Ojeda Rios is considered to be extremely dangerous. The FBI believes he has automatic weapons and explosives, and says he has opened fire on lawmen.

WORLD'S FIRST EYEWITNESS ACCOUNT OF HELL!

Out-of-body experience lands woman face-to-face with Satan himself!

By ANGUS FENWICK
Weekly World News

JUANITA's description of hell resembles the artist's rendition — chock full of inhuman beasts intent on torturing the damned in every way possible

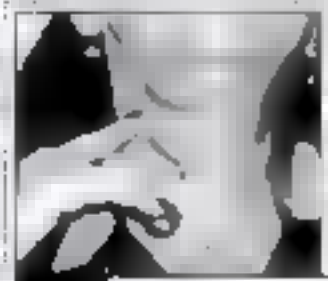
PATZCUARO, Mexico — A woman officially pronounced dead has come back to life — with a total recall of her entire experience in Hell!

A morgue attendant was shocked to notice movement in the fingers of Juanita Esperanza, 37, who had been pronounced legally dead after drowning. Paramedics were summoned and successfully helped revive her.

"I was so stunned as they were," says Juanita, who is still in awe over her return from the dead. "Because I saw Hell and it was an experience that I'll never forget."

The former nurse says Hell is "made up of three different levels. The first level is pitch black and ice cold. There's little or no sound — just heavy metal music playing at the time."

"The tallest creatures I'd ever seen were standing themselves in my bed



JUANITA shows a few of the injuries inflicted on her by demons

HELL ON EARTH

HERE'S the short list of places on earth that most resemble the devil's playground:

1) BAGHDAD — It's a bad place to be now, but it'll be even worse in a few months if President Bush has his way.

2) GARY, INDIANA — A classic soulless American city with one drawback — it makes the Satan's safest spots there!

3) FRANCE — The hideously, hate-wearing folks of this supposed "ally" of ours hate our guts and go out of their way to make American tourists miserable.

4) NIGERIA — What kind of country does over a twenty percent?

5) DEATH VALLEY — Any place where

...ing out what awaits ...Heart. I was in excruciating pain. It was terrifying."

Juanita shudders at the memories her experience in the second level of Hell. "My body was ...ushed as many possible ways by the most disgusting beings in the universe. This went on and on, with no a break, and there was nothing I ...could do about it."

But the third level was the worst one of all. "I'm be tied down. I was violated by a huge creature with horned feet and hands. I knew ...stood was Satan himself.

...ed Parapsychology Studies in London, [illegible] opportunity to run whether Esperanza's ...were in Hell or just experienced ...similar hallucinations.

Professor Kenneth Speight was ...ed that Juanita was convinced ...that it happened, even that ...she'd actually gone to Hell. ...some unusual and impressive ...professional help she sought [illegible] by these events in the ...rest of her life.

Juanita ... she's not sure how she ended up in Hell. "I'm not a bad person. I don't think I belonged there.

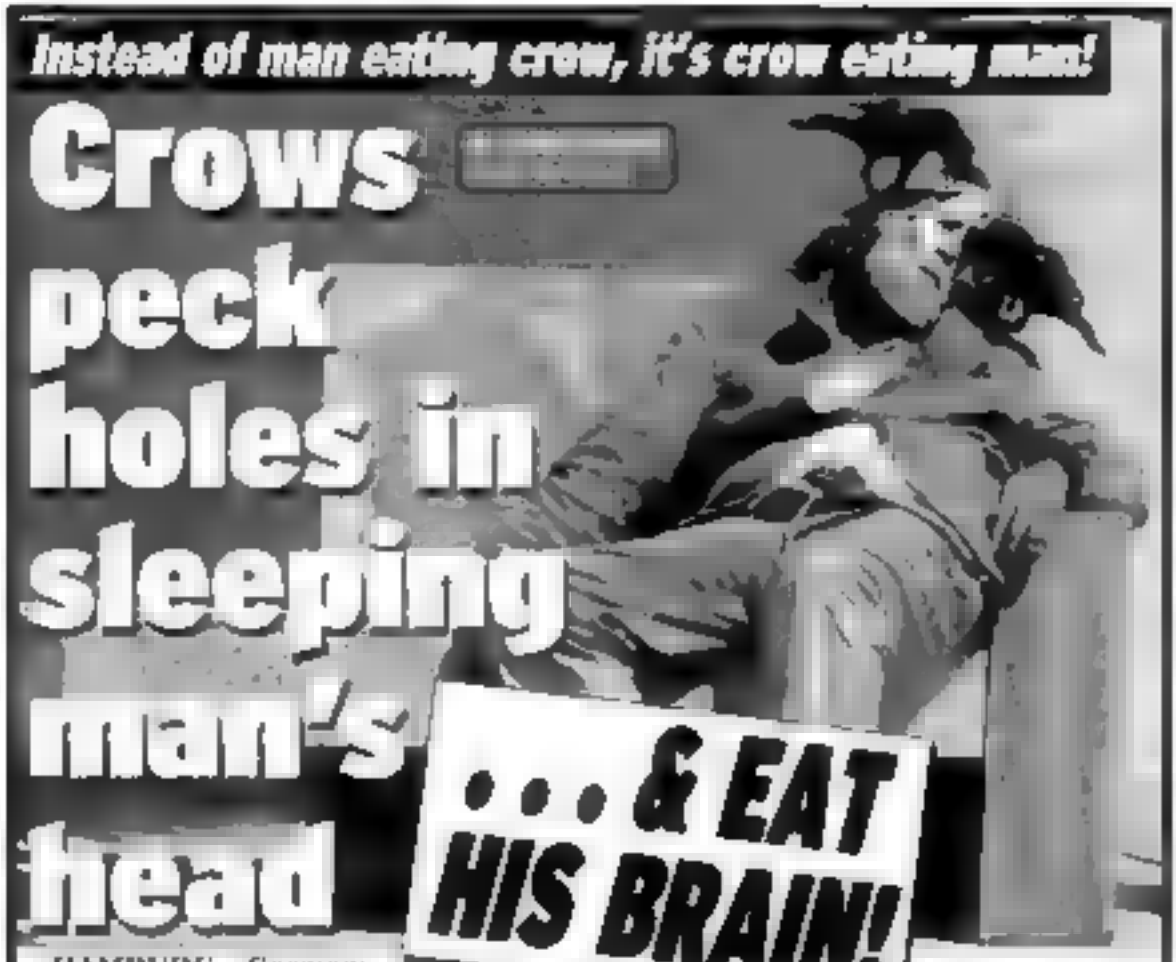
I mean, sure, I've made mistakes and done some things I shouldn't have done, but I never killed anyone. I was a nurse. I was there with babies, rapists and sinners."

But the experience has left Esperanza vowing to become a better person. "I'm excited going to church again. I want to be a better Christian and help other people but more than anything, I want to live a better life, so that when my time does come, I'll be ready to go to Heaven."

THE HELL and back Juanita is happy to be back on earth

Instead of man eating crow, it's crow eating man!

Crows peck holes in sleeping man's head ... & EAT HIS BRAIN!



HAMBURG, Germany — Hard-hooving bakery worker Werner Lischt was passed out cold on a park bench when dozens of hungry crows descended on him, pecked out his eyeballs — and ate his brain!

Shocked cops say the birds had pecked giant holes in the hapless man's skull, had consumed more than 10 percent of his brain matter and were fighting over what little was left when officers arrived on the scene.

"Crows will eat anything, you know, and they literally ate this guy alive," officer August Heltridge later told reporters.

They literally ate him alive, say cops!

Grandma, 86, run over by a reindeer!

PETERBOROUGH, England — A family's Christmas joy turned to sorrow when their elderly grandmother was trampled to death by a reindeer that had escaped from a local zoo on Christmas Eve.

"I guess it sounds like that dumb song," sobs bereaved husband Abner Nayton, 88, referring to the popular holiday novelty ditty, "Grandma Got Run Over By A Reindeer."

"But this is no Christmas carol. My Gladys is dead."

The Nayton family was out caroling around their neighborhood when the reindeer suddenly emerged from the bushes at a trot.

"He charged right at Gladys," Nayton recalls. "Plowed over her, knocked her face-down in the snow and ran off."

Gladys Nayton, 86, died instantly. The reindeer was later recaptured by zookeepers, who have not yet decided the animal's fate.

"This was no flying reindeer, and it wasn't pulling Santa's sled," notes grandson Jack Nayton, 24. "It was a very real tragedy. One minute we were singing, and the next minute, she was gone."

"But now every time we hear that stupid song, we'll remember our grandma."

This week, as we were working on an ordinary story about celebrities and their pets, Sonya was practically knocked out by the waves of spiritual energy being transmitted to her.

So here are Sonya's celebrity cat prognostications. And if they're as accurate as her human predictions — the following celebrities would do well to heed the feline forecasts.

SYLVESTER the cat foretells big things for Wynonna Judd. The frisky feline thinks Wynonna will reunite with her famous mother, Naomi, on a national tour — whose show'll be joined by Wynonna's sister, actress Ashley. Sylvester can't wait to hear the three Judds harmonizing together.

PRO WRESTLER Goldberg's three kitties say their macho master wants to follow in the footsteps of Jesse Ventura, the ex-wrestler who made waves when he was elected governor of Minnesota. Whatever path he walks, they predict he'll win in a landslide — because every politician will be terrified to go up against him!

MARG HELGENBERGER's starring role on the smash TV drama C.S.I. has the actress thinking about opening her own detective agency, says furry friend Sheldon. She may have to call on the kitty to crack her first case: A notorious cat burglar!

DOPES OF THE WEEK

Perfect crime not so perfect!

NORTH AUGUSTA, S.C. — A gunman broke into a woman's house and ordered her to drive to her bank so she could withdraw money, according to the cops who are still chuckling at his pea-brained plan. There he sat outside in the car and waited for her to come out with the cash.

The dim-witted crook was surprised when the woman asked a bank employee to call the cops — who promptly arrived and busted him on a slew of charges, including burglary, kidnapping and attempted armed robbery.

"He's just sitting there, waiting for her to come out with the money," says Aiken County Sheriff's Capt. Michael Prack, recalling the hapless bandit's arrest.

Cops dial phone thief's underwear!

EAST LONDON, South Africa — A thief figured he'd outsmart a stolen cell phone when the cops couldn't find it — until they called the phone and heard his shirt ringing!

The 18-year-old [illegible] busted for robbing a woman at gunpoint. Cops searched him, but couldn't find the phone. So, on a hunch, they called its number.

"They heard the phone go off, and found it in his underpants," says East London police spokeswoman Michelle Matrose.

Fast-food workers make quick work of robber wearing a bucket on his head

PERTH, Australia — Workers at a fast-food restaurant overpowered a guy trying to rob the place, but it wasn't hard — he was wearing a bucket on his head!

Cops say the 20-year-old man, who was also draped in black plastic, snuck in through the roof of the building.

Workers say the man straightened them with a piece of tile and demanded money. A male employee easily took

Is my husband a space alien?

Dear Sonya: I think my husband has been replaced by a space alien. Lately he has been really cold and distant to me. We never make love any more. And he always leaves the room when he makes a phone call. When I ask him who he was calling, he says, "Nobody."

THIS WEEK'S SIX LUCKIEST LOTTO NUMBERS

Weekly World News has purchased exclusive rights to the world's most powerful computer — and we use it to pick the six luckiest lottery numbers every week!

The Swiss-built computer, called Delphi Group, has the ability to calculate which lottery numbers are most likely to come up each week, based on previous performance and established tendencies. The numbers are good for the week Weekly World News is on the newsstand.

The computer stores all numbers selected in lotteries across America over the past year to provide a statistical base for predicting future results. More value is given to the most recently selected numbers.

Using all available data, the computer picks the luckiest numbers

Saddam look-alikes making big bucks impersonating the wacky Iraqi

By MIKE FOSTER
World News

BAGHDAD — Elvis impersonators are big in America, but the highest paid entertainers in Iraq are Saddam Hussein impersonators!

Doubles for the moustachioed butcher of Baghdad are much sought after for birthdays at weddings, office parties, children's birthdays and business functions.

"It could even be at a sales meeting where the key points are being made by a dead ringer for an affable chap like President Hussein," states Hamid Nawaz, a veteran Saddam impersonator for nine years who can make a good living like all others through his talent alone.

Understandably there is the big joke around that all impersonators are occasionally subjected to the final thing and get bumped off.

Acclaimed as the Presidents by the Iraqi people there are quite a few misguided individuals in our country who would like to "unfriend" Saddam, and intelligence sources in the Americans CIA in particular would dearly like to eliminate Public Enemy No. 1.

Nawaz estimates that there are now 200 Saddam impersonators in Iraq and most earn enough money to live comfortably.

Khalid — despite many [illegible] — is one of the few impersonators who feel his President's style and mannerisms down to a T, says Nawaz.

Khalid is actually much shorter than the real President Hussein. The CIA would have no problem finding him for assassination.

Garlic, vinegar and honey for everything from arthritis to ulcers

Zesty garlic, sparkling apple cider [illegible] and smooth, sweet honey are [illegible] safe and effective natural remedies for all that ails you — but when taken together they pack a triple punch!

And an exciting new three in one tablet for the first time provides a healthful and convenient daily dose.

Arthritis, asthma, cancer, colds, high blood pressure, insomnia and ulcers . . . these are only a few of the ailments that garlic, vinegar and honey — particularly when taken together — can help.

"No large pharmaceutical companies broadcast the benefits of these miracle products because there is no way they can make money by publicizing them — because they are all-natural ingredients," observes one noted researcher.

Researchers at a prestigious Texas hospital are looking at garlic as a potential weapon against different forms of cancer.

Garlic combined with cider vinegar has also been shown to be effective in the treatment of everything from acne to heart disease.

Honey is recognized as an excellent source of quick energy.

Athletes often gulp down a spoonful of honey to improve performance because honey is quickly absorbed in the blood stream.

7 WAYS TO MAKE JURY DUTY FUN

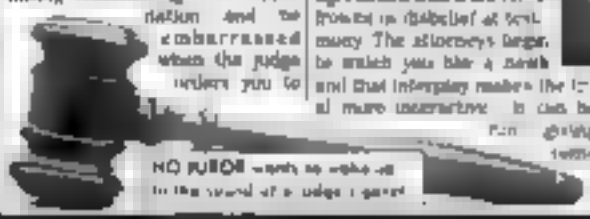
Quick and easy survival tips for long, boring trials!

NOTHING can be more mind-numbing than serving as a juror on one of those nightmarishly long high-profile trials — when you can be sequestered for months.

Your pals may be jealous that you get to be at the center of a "glamorous" legal drama. But unlike folks who watch only the highlights on TV, you have to sit through every minute of tedious testimony.

Here, from courtwatchers, legal eagles and former jurors, are seven ways to make the ordeal less tiresome — and even fun.

1) Turn into bed early every night. That way you won't doze off during some boring cross-examination and be embarrassed when the judge orders you to stop snoring. Just as with a preacher's Sunday sermon, you'll find it a lot more interesting if you haven't spent the previous night partying the previous night.



NO JUROR wants to wake up to the sound of a judge's gavel.

2) Select the chair that permits you, on the jury who needs to agree with a verdict, to look interested or disbelief at testimony. The attorneys [illegible] watch you like a hawk and that interplay makes the trial more interactive. It can be fun — giving [illegible] would also reference and at [illegible] ting look to [illegible] what [illegible] reason." says one former juror.

Select seat that maximizes opportunities to get cable viewing.

3) Wear something stimulating to court. [illegible] such as a revealing but [illegible] girl's [illegible] out of being the center of attention as reporters try to guess what you'll wear next. Women can have fun by wearing a low-cut blouse with a few buttons accidentally undone on a few occasions.

4) Have a romance fling. If you're concerned about causing a possible [illegible] mistrial, choose a hunky court officer or shapely court reporter instead of a fellow juror.

5) Take breaks from the trial atmosphere. If you're not sequestered, go on a hike and a Schwarzenegger movie or take your kids to the zoo.

6) If you're sequestered, bring along cards and board games. A Ouija board can also provide hours of endless fun for you and fellow jurors, but avoid the temptation to involve its advice in deliberations.

7) Pay careful attention to the voice and mannerisms of the various players in the trial, such as the attorneys, the defendant and the judge. That way, you can entertain fellow jurors at night with amusing impressions.

DEAD OR ALIVE?

THESE once-ubiquitous stars used to be as familiar to us as members of our own families. But we haven't seen much of these folks. Can you tell who's still living and who's dead? (Answers at bottom.)

This week: Celebrities turned politicians

BILL BRADLEY
The Olympic gold medal winner and Hall of Fame NBA basketball player became a U.S. Senator.

CLINT EASTWOOD
"Dirty Harry goes to Washington?" Not exactly — but he did become Mayor of Carmel, Calif.

JESSE VENTURA
Jesse "The Body" Ventura used to tackle opponents as a pro wrestler — now he tackles political issues as Governor of Minnesota.

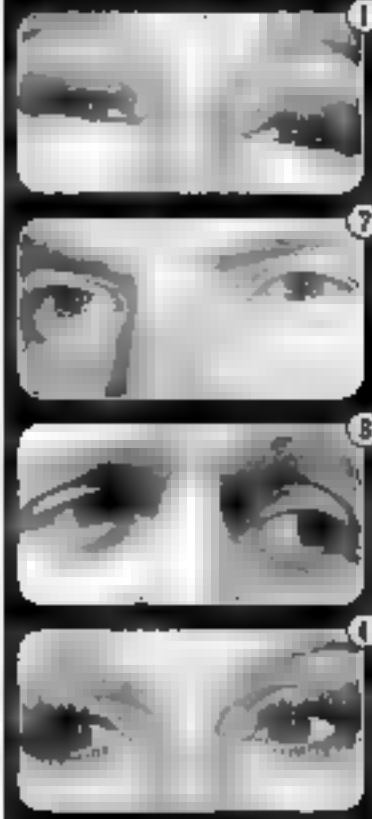
RONALD REAGAN
This man was famous even before he became our fortieth President — as a Hollywood actor.

FRED GRANDY
It wasn't an episode of Love Boat when the Captain called at previous Gopher Prod. went on as State Rep. of Iowa.

SONNY BONO
Sonny was best known as the driving force behind the pop duo Sonny & Cher. He went on to become Mayor of Palm Springs, Calif., and a congressman.

MYSTERY EYES

Below are close-ups of seven very famous celebrities. Can you tell who they are? The answers are below. HINT: This week, they're all singers.



WHO IS IT

KITTENS having a tea party, squirrels playing cards, guinea pigs playing in a band — there's nothing stuffy about the stuffed animals in Mr. Potter's Museum of Curiosities!

Most of the animals in this collection were alive and ticking once, and were stuffed after death by taxidermists. Visitors from throughout the world enjoy them at the museum, which contains an astounding 10,000 exhibits.

It was founded in 1851 by Walter Potter, who opened it in West Sussex, England. John Watts bought it in 1986 and moved the managers to the Jamaica Inn in Cornwall.

Now the whole thang's up for sale again. "We get a lot of visitors to the museum," Watts explains, "but we want to make the inn in a different direction."

POLL RESULTS ARE IN — READERS SAY:

INVADE IRAQ AND GET OSAMA'S GOAT!

WE ASKED for your opinion on three major issues covered in recent editions of Weekly World News, and you answered — boy, did you!

Hundreds of cards, letters and e-mails have poured into our offices from readers responding to three opinion polls. Here's what just some of you said:

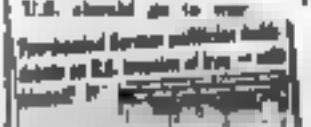
Invade Iraq? We Can't Wait!

In our October 29 edition, we printed both sides of a debate between Max and Nikita Kerbaev, the two-headed Corsican politicians who ran for mayor of their tiny town earlier this year. Max said the U.S. should go to war with Iraq immediately. Nikita thinks that Iraq has no weapons of destruction and poses no threat to us.

We asked Weekly World News readers to vote on which of them has heads they thought was right — and they are ready to go to war. "Stop procrastinating around, get in there and do it," urges Bob D. of Denver, and his opinion was representative of the responses we received.

Readers overwhelmingly agreed with Max that we should invade Iraq and get rid of bully-boy dictator Saddam Hussein.

"And we need to find his buddy Osama Bin Laden and get rid of him, too," adds Mary L. of Jasper, Texas.



READERS agree with Max that Saddam is a threat that must be dealt with.

Smash the Sniper Toys!

Readers also were practically unanimous in urging a ban on those shocking Sniper Toys (Weekly World News, Nov. 19, 2002) — a murderous throw-to the shocking shootings that terrorized the people of Washington, D.C., Maryland and Pennsylvania this year.

"This is the sickest thing I've ever heard of," declares Walter M. of Provo, Utah.

We couldn't agree with you more, Walter — that's why we broke this story!

In fact, we received only one vote from some idiots who thought the sniper toys should not be banned — and he works for the toy company.

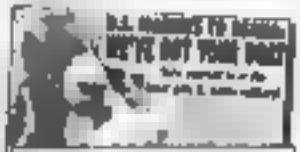
ONLY one respondent supported the sniper toys — and he works for their manufacturer.

Let's Get Osama's Goat

Readers were less sure whether to execute Osama Bin Laden's beloved pet goat, who was captured by U.S. Marines in Afghanistan (Weekly World News, Jan. 14, 2003). Many respondents spoke felt the poor animal shouldn't be punished for Osama's sins. Carol C. of Century, Fla., sums up the feelings of many when she writes, "That goat is innocent."

But execution was finally recommended by a narrow margin — to an act of mercy.

"It's not the goat's fault what Osama does," writes Otto T. of Brooklyn, N.Y. "But the way I see it, it'd be even crueler to send the poor thing back to that madman."



SINCE Osama's goat did no wrong, readers were closely split on how to handle it.

A single share of Coca-Cola stock, purchased in 1919, when the company went public, would have been worth $92,500 in 1997. Dr. Seuss wrote Green Eggs and Ham after his editor dared him to write a book using fewer than 50 different words.

That's just a sample of the astonishing trivia that reporters and editors at Weekly World News have unearthed while researching all the terrific stories you read in our paper every week. Here's more:

● Why do golf courses have 18 holes? It's not because a bottle of Scotch has 18 shots, as some golfing lore has it. In fact, the Original Course at the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of Saint Andrews originally boasted 22 holes per round beginning in the 15th century. But in 1764 two of the original fairways were judged to be too short and were consequently combined with others. What was left formed what is now considered a standard round of eighteen holes.

● Arctic climates often get surprisingly little snow. Barrow, Alaska, for example, gets less snow than Chicago in an average year, despite having winters that average 20 degrees colder. The reason? There's not as much moisture, hence not as much snow.

■ According to the National Wild Turkey Federation, the number of wild turkeys in the U.S. has increased from an all-time low of 30,000 to more than four million today. One state park in Iowa now boasts more than 100 gobblers per square mile.

● In China, the accordion is known as the "sun-tan-chin" in Russia it is the "bayan" in Norway it's "orakspell" and Italians call it the "fisarmonica."

● One punishment for an adulterous wife in medieval France was to make her chase a chicken through town naked.

● According to Archives of General Medicine, coffee drinkers have sex more frequently and enjoy it more than non-coffee drinkers.

● Buddhism is the fastest growing religion in Ireland.

● Lucky 13? Consider this: There were 13 U.S. colonies, which led to 13 stars, bars, and an eagle with 13 tail feathers that was holding 13 arrows. "E Pluribus Unum" has 13 letters.

● A circus elephant named Mary was publicly hanged with a derrick and a chain on Sept. 13, 1916, in Erwin, Tenn., after it killed a keeper.

● Before Serena and Venus Williams in 1917, Lucy Slowe became the first black woman tennis champion in the United States after winning the women's singles title at a tournament in Baltimore.

● Holy guacamole! According to Pitney Bowles, Super Bowl Sunday is the second largest avocado eating day of the year in the U.S. The first largest day is Cinco de Mayo.

● From 1933-1938 Duluth, Minn. boasted an NFL team. It was originally called the Duluth Kelleys until the name was changed to the Eskimos in 1934.

● Al "Grandpa Munster" Lewis once worked as a college basketball recruiter.

● Patricia McCormick became America's first female bullfighter when she entered the arena in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico on Jan 18, 1957.

● In 1903, driving his famous "999" built by Henry Ford, Berner Eli "Barney" Oldfield became the first man to achieve 60 m.p.h., a speed many doctors of the day claimed would cause deadness.

● Ex-dictator and alleged cannibal Idi Amin was heavyweight boxing champ of Uganda for 8 years.

● Female mannequins generally stand 5-foot-10 and wear a size 6 or 8, while male mannequins wear a size 38 or 40.

● The largest dinosaur egg discovered so far, belonged to a 40-foot-long plant eater called a hadrosaur. It measured 16 inches long and 10 inches wide.

GERMAN SCIE
FIVE DECEASE

BEEDENBOSTEL, Germany — A German geneticist has offered to replicate five of America's all-time favorite Presidents — and the lucky cloning candidates will be chosen by Weekly World News readers!

"What better way would there be to honor our greatest ally, the United States of America, than to bring five of her most beloved commanders in chief back to life?" asks Dr. Dieter Blauprecht, who is spearheading the astonishing project.

"Imagine another Washington, Lincoln or J.F.K. walking the earth. We can make that happen."

Dr. Blauprecht and his team of researchers are ready to obtain DNA samples from whichever five dearly departed presidents loyal WWN readers choose.

"We have contacted the Presidential libraries of all of America's late leaders, and they have granted us access to any papers and personal effects that the subjects may have touched and left DNA on during their respective lifetimes," says Dr. Blauprecht.

"We have also obtained permission to exhume a President's remains in order to obtain a sample if we can't secure a healthy specimen at a library. Once all of the votes are in and five candidates have been chosen, we can proceed with the project."

Germany leads the world in human cloning success, beginning with the creation of "Helmut W" seven years ago in Bremen. Helmut was produced from the DNA of maniacal Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler, as reported in the August 28, 2002 Weekly World News.

"Helmut was an attempt to produce a benevolent version of Hitler, but that clone has demonstrated severe

BRINGING back dead Presidents, such as J.F.K. and Abe Lincoln could really do a lot for the morale of this country — particularly in these troublesome times.

personality flaws," says Dr Blasprecht, who discovered that historic cloning project, but did not take part. "Already the boy is showing signs of the rampant megalomania that Hitler was famous for.

"Germany wants to show the world that some good can come of human cloning, so that's why we have selected U.S. Presidents as our next subjects."

DR DIETER BLAUPRECHT

Such an experiment could never happen in the U.S., with the Bush administration's staunch anti-cloning stance.

On April 2, 2002, President George W Bush told an audience of about 175 lawmakers, pro-life activists, researchers and people with disabilities that cloning is a "step toward a society in which human beings are grown for spare body parts," and called on the Senate to ban all human cloning in the U.S.

"President Bush makes some valid points, but the rest of the world is making the bold scientific leaps that Bush is afraid of," says Dr Blasprecht.

He adds: "But, of course, I too would be nervous if I thought there was a chance Thomas Jefferson or Abraham Lincoln might be running against me in 2004."
